TOP 10 DOWNTOWN

DISCOVER DOWNTOWN COLORADO SPRINGS

Maybe it's the boutiques and unique shops with something for everyone. Maybe it's dozens of locally owned restaurants, coffeehouses and breweries. Maybe it's our historic architecture, award-winning public art and active lifestyle.

Turns out, all those qualities and more earned Downtown Colorado Springs a spot in the Top 10 Best Towns of 2016, according to Livability.com.

With Middle Shooks Run and Pikes Peak Greenway trails surrounding Downtown, there's easy trail access for a run or bike ride. Downtown's designation as a Colorado Certified Creative district – with public art, numerous galleries, museums and creative industries – also factored into the top ranking among small and midsize cities. Livability.com noted: "Colorado Springs has the highest concentration of both parks and arts-related businesses among the cities that made our list of the Best Towns." Also earning praise are the growing number of locally owned restaurants, coworking spaces and entertainment options, as well as low vacancy rates and new development initiatives.

Downtown Colorado Springs has a vibe unlike anywhere else – where Olympic athletes can be found hanging out at a juice bar, office workers enjoy biking on their lunch hour, and festivals and parades fill the streets several times each year. If you haven't been Downtown in a while, you'll find there's so much to discover.

The cultural scene in the Pikes Peak region is reaching new heights!

One site helps you discover it all.

Top: The Merl Scramble – potatoes, onions, green peppers, and eggs – comes smothered in your choice of King Chef's famous Green Chili or Country Gravy. Bottom: Fresh herbs are grown on site at Bambino's Urban Pizzeria.

It's perhaps the funkiest two blocks Downtown. From Nevada to Cascade avenues with Uncle Wilber Fountain smack in between, Bijou Street always has maintained a bit of live-and-let-live character outside the mainstream. Now, several new businesses on Bijou join longtime stalwarts, and the fun factor continues to grow.

Eat Up

King's Chef Diner is a longtime Downtown anchor with a prominent location at Bijou and Nevada. Known for their award-winning green chili, they serve up more than 4,000 eggs and half a ton of potatoes each week in colossal creations like The Grump and The Thing. Don't look for trendy gourmet toast or flavored seven-word-long coffees at this good ol' fashioned diner with a bit of attitude, but clean your plate and you'll earn a sticker.

New to Bijou but a longtime Colorado Springs favorite, Bambino's opened on Bijou as the revamped Bambino's Urban Pizzeria. The street-fronting Dough Room provides insight into their made-by-hand crust, and a wall lined with fresh growing herbs adds something special to this not-so-ordinary pizza joint.

Also on Bijou, get your fill at Pita Pit or Bella's Bakery and Cafe. Enjoy a variety of ethnic cuisine with Azada Mexican Grill, Taste of Jerusalem Cafe and Everest Nepal Restaurant.

Make it Artsy

The Modbo and S.P.Q.R. galleries sit just off Bijou in an alley, but they aren't the only artistic spots on the block. The Colorado Photography School offers classes and gallery shows, and Art 111 features a rotating selection of work by local artists. If you're looking for hands-on creative expression, stop in at Woolly Works Knit Shop for supplies, classes and open-knit sessions.

First Friday gallery receptions at S.P.Q.R. and The Modbo draw a crowd.

Utilizing a decades-old process (and press) Ladyfingers Letterpress creates witty cards and custom stationery.

Ladyfingers Letterpress, an award-winning invitation and international stationery brand, will open their retail and printing press operation on Bijou this month. Find hand-printed cards and stationery, and watch the 130-year-old letterpress in action.

Get Inked

Whether you're inked or not, it's hard to deny the artistry of tattoos. In fact, many tattoo artists also paint, draw, and have training in fine arts. Lucky Devil Tattoo and Nostalgia Tattoo keep busy on Bijou, as does To the Grave Tattoo in the alley between Tejon and Cascade.

Ron Dolecek brings a deep appreciation for the art and craft of tattooing – and 23 years of experience – to his work at Lucky Devil Tattoo.

Shopping

The fun and funky factor of Bijou is seen in the eclecticism of the shops, each just a bit more quirky – in a good way – than what you might find on Tejon. The newest addition, Hooked on Books, offers a wide selection of new and used books in a relaxed atmosphere perfect for casual browsing.

From Far Out Factory's custom shirts to anything made of hemp at Hemplements, there's something for everyone just off the main drag. Color and scent will invigorate your senses at Everest Tibet Imports, your inner superhero will bask in all things graphic novel at Escape Velocity Comics, and you can still find vinyl at Independent Records. Whether you're looking for the perfect commuter or fixie bike at The

New kids on the block - Hooked On Books opened their second location at 10-12 E. Bijou this April. The popular new and used bookstore offers writing workshops, author talks and more.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS COMING TO BIJOU

This view from the top level of the Bijou/Cascade parking garage looks south to the location of the proposed new hotel property. The hotel would be located on the southeast corner of the Bijou/Cascade intersection, where a vacant bank is currently located. Photo: © 2015 Stellar Propeller Studio.

A new addition to Bijou promises to be big – and by big, we mean 10 stories tall. Now in planning stages, a new 10-story hotel could be transforming the corner of Bijou and Cascade, replacing a long defunct empty bank building.

Urbanites looking for a chance to live Downtown will soon have a new option, too. Nine new one-bedroom condos will be available on the top level of the Colburn Motor Tours building, located on Bijou just across from Acacia Park. Construction starts soon, and condos should be available in 2017.

Urban Cyclery or to be pampered at Hyacinth's Boutique and Spa, Bijou's got you covered.

Make mine tiny

Tiny in size but not on flavor, Story Coffee Co. is a new, temporary coffee shop built in a tiny house. Located on the Bijou side of Acacia Park, the shop offers select coffee roasts and a special dessert night every Friday. Sip inside, or enjoy a view of Pikes Peak from their deck.

Psssst...

One of the best-kept secrets to parking downtown is the city-owned garage at Bijou and Cascade. The cost is less than a meter at 75 cents an hour, and only $1 after 3pm weekdays and all day weekends. Enter from Cascade and pay with cash or credit card. Just steps from Bijou, the garage is handicap accessible and also houses eight Tesla supercharging stations.

DOWNTOWN FUN FACTS

A fence once surrounded Acacia Park in order to keep local dairy cows from grazing on the park's grass. To this day, hooved animals are prohibited in the park.

PEDAL ON

From mountain biking trails to family-friendly rides with the kids, the trails and parks in and around Downtown host a variety of biking activities for all ages and abilities. Some even offer a bike if you don't have your own!

People's Pedal Party

UpaDowna's all ages, all abilities People's Pedal Party is from 6 to 8 p.m. every Wednesday through September 7. A limited amount of bikes are available for loan (for free!) or bring your own. Rides start from McCabe's Tavern, 520 S. Tejon. Details: bit.ly/pedalCOS.

Popcycle Ride

The Kids on Bikes weekly family rides welcome all ages and abilities. Enjoy a six-mile round-trip ride along the Pikes Peak Greenway trail, stopping half way on the Popcycle Bridge for Popsicles! Sundays, 1pm at America the Beautiful Park. kidsonbikes.net

NEW PEDAL STATION

The Pedal Station, a project of Kids on Bikes, has opened at 527 S. Tejon St. The retail store offers used bikes that have been donated and refurbished by mechanics, as well as parts, gear, and accessories. Plus, there are year-round classes, Open Shop and Fix-it nights. Donate a bike, volunteer, or learn more: kidsonbikes.net/pedal-station. The Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts had campouts on the roof of Hibbard & Company Department Store, open from 1892 to 1996. (Chipotle occupies the street front today). A fence designed to prevent sleepwalkers from falling off the edge can still be seen along the roofline.

The Colorado Springs Pioneers Museum is said to be haunted by the ghost of a former custodian, who was shot to death there by a fellow custodian. This happened in 1959, when the building was still serving as the El Paso County Courthouse.

Built in 1937, Peak Theater, now the Kimball's Peak Three Theater, is the last of six movie theaters that operated downtown. The theater's unusual pie-piece-shaped marquee was originally designed to use zeon, which was considered more vibrant than neon.

Bicycles have always been popular in Colorado Springs. So much so that in 1899 Fire Chief E. E. Baty threatened to stop announcing fires by ringing the fire bell at City Hall for fear bicyclists, who were following equipment to the scene, might be trampled.

EYE CANDY

Whimsical dogs by artist Cathy Walters adorn a traffic signal box in Acacia Park. Six new cabinets will be covered with new artwork this summer.

What do you think of when you think of public art? Perhaps a bronze statue of a city founder (a la Jebediah Springfield on TV's "The Simpsons"). Perhaps something interactive and engaging, like Chicago's Cloud Gate, a mirrored bean that's become an icon in the Windy City. Or maybe variations on a theme, like scores of cows, pigs, guitars and other figures each painted and decorated in a unique design to celebrate a city's brand.

In Downtown Colorado Springs, public art takes all those forms, and more. The city's center boasts scores of pieces of public art that beautify, engage, delight and intrigue. Early summer sees the arrival of new works, while many others are permanent parts of the urban landscape. Here's a brief roundup of the art you'll find Downtown.

Historic bronzes

Whether it's General Palmer astride his horse in the intersection of Platte and Nevada avenues or William Seymour, the city's first black juror, near a bench outside the Pioneers Museum (pictured), Downtown boasts several bronze statues of the men and women who filled important roles in the city's early years. The works are maintained as part of the City of Colorado Springs' permanent public art collection.

Art on the Streets

Now in its 18th year, Art on the Streets celebrates the power of art in public places while turning the streets of Downtown into a yearlong outdoor art gallery. Believing a world-class community needs public art, Art on the Streets was competitive juried process, and selected works are displayed Downtown for one year. The annual rotation of works ensures a fresh and surprising experience because every year is different – from giant paper clips to vinyl parrots suspended above an alley and much more. ## InterSection

Public art isn't always an object on a pedestal – it can be found in surprising and even functional forms. Last year, Downtown Colorado Springs launched a new program to transform a necessary but often ugly part of city infrastructure – traffic signal cabinets – into works of art. Unique designs by local artists are printed onto vinyl, wrapping the cabinets with colorful art. Twelve cabinets were transformed in 2015, and six more will be wrapped early this summer. www.DowntownCS.com/intersection

The new colorful mural at the Council of Neighbors and Organizations office was a project of The Mural Project and participants from Harrison District 2.

Volunteers from across the community collaborated with Concrete Couch to transform a parking lot wall into more than 100 feet of mosaic mural. Watch the transformation online: bit.ly/librarymural

Murals

Look up, down and all around. Murals abound Downtown. Two new murals were dedicated in May: the first, a vibrant nod to neighborhood culture at the offices of the Council of Neighbors and Organizations. A massive mosaic mural by Concrete Couch and community volunteers was also completed and unveiled in the lower parking area of the Penrose Library.

PATIO SEASON

We Coloradans sure love our sunshine, and with patio season upon us there's no better time to soak up some rays with an iced coffee or local brew, great food and some of the best people-watching around.

Street side

There may be no better place to people watch than from a street side view at a Downtown sidewalk cafe. From sandwich spots and pizza joints to upscale dining, more than 50 (yes, fifty!) sidewalk patios dot nearly every block in the Downtown core.

The newbies

It's hard to miss one of the newest dining spots Downtown, thanks to a sprawling bright blue-and-white awning at Bonny and Read. Located on Kiowa just east of Tejon, the restaurant is the third for local restaurateur Joseph Campana, featuring flown-in-fresh seafood in a relaxed, pirate-inspired atmosphere. Inside, you'll find whimsical pirate paintings by local artist Phil Lear, while outside there's ample seating on the expansive sidewalk patio.

Venture to the New South End and enjoy the newly expanded Iron Bird Brewery, where you can grab a beer, wood-oven pizza and dine on a patio complete with fire pit for those cool summer nights. If you're feeling a bit European, try the newly revamped sidewalk seating at Café Roma, or their "indoor patio" bar.

Skyline view

Coffee lovers can get their caffeine with a view from their rooftop patio at The Perk. If local beer is more your thing, try the rooftop patios at Phantom Canyon and Brewer's Republic. After hours, enjoy a cocktail and dancing on the rooftop patio at Blondie's.
